2. Prospect of Profit and Losses

Reference data & fundamentals:

Reference date:	10 June 2013
Index:	USD 3 Month LIBOR at 0.27415% (Fixing on 10 June 2013)

Prospects of Profit and Losses:

Profit Potential:	The prospective gain is limited to the Coupon and is capped at the level of the Coupon Cap.
Loss Potential:	Coupon could be as low as the Coupon Floor. Furthermore investors in the Notes are exposed to the credit risk of the Issuer.

Analysis of Pros & Cons

Product Pros:

Limited risk: floored coupon(s)	Coupons are floored at 1.40% p.a. during the whole life of the product.
Hedge instrument:	Owing to the floating coupon rate, this note has low sensitivity to changes in market rates, which helps to mitigate the risk of fixed rate portfolios.
Limited risk: independent coupons	Coupons are independent from one period to the next (no ratchet effect). If the coupon is low (or down to the floor level) at some point, it may possibly rise thereafter, barring the note maturing.
Limited risk: fixed maturity	The maturity of the note is known beforehand. If the view taken proves correct, this note will pay high coupon until maturity, whereas it would probably be called at some point if it were callable.
Limited risk: no risk on capital	The capital is 100% guaranteed by the Issuer at maturity.

Product Cons:

Coupon risk: Coupons could be as low as 1.40% p.a., if USD 3 Month LIBOR does not fix above 1.40%.

Limited gain: capped coupon(s) Coupons are capped at 4.50% p.a. during the whole life of the product.

Mark-to-market risk: The market value of this note (MtM) is subject to fluctuation. The factors which influence the MtM of the Notes are:

- The spot & forward levels of the underlying index, as well as its implied volatility, which have an influence on the expected value of future coupons;
- The level of market rates;
- The credit worthiness of the Issuer: the note's MtM decrease if the credit worthiness of the Issuer worsens.

In the particular case of floaters: the MtM can either be very little sensitive to changes in rates (in the case of simple floaters) or increase should market rates increase (in the case of power floaters).

The MtM value of the note can be provided to investors (please contact us for any question on this topic).

Credit risk: Even though (a) this note has no explicit indexation to credit markets and (b) its capital is guaranteed by the issuer at maturity or on the call date (if any), the investor is subject to a possible default by the issuer (affecting the redemption) or to a worsening issuer creditworthiness (affecting the market value of the note).

Liquidity: This product is not a liquid instrument. The investor should be prepared to hold it until maturity should it not be called, if such option exists, by the Issuer.

Under normal market conditions, Crédit Agricole CIB will endeavour, upon request of the investor, to give an indicative bid price for the note provided however that Crédit Agricole CIB does not assume any legal obligation to make a secondary market for this note. An insufficient secondary market may prevent the liquidation or limit the funds that can be generated from the sale of this note.

The bid price will be based on the market value of the note, determined by Crédit Agricole CIB acting in good faith and may be below par. Such bid price will be dependent upon, among other things, interest rates, interest rate volatility, perceptions of Issuer creditworthiness, time remaining to maturity, Crédit Agricole CIB' hedging obligations and the costs and losses incurred in connection with discharging such obligations.

3. Significant Risk for Investors

Risk factors related to the Issuer (Credit risk)

Even though (a) this note has no explicit indexation to credit markets and (b) its capital is guaranteed by the Issuer at maturity or on the call date (if any), the investor is subject to a possible default by the issuer (affecting the redemption) or to a worsening issuer creditworthiness (affecting the market value of the note).

Mark-to-market risk

The market value of this note (MtM) is subject to fluctuation. The factors which influence the MtM of the note are:

- The spot & forward levels of the underlying index, as well as its implied volatility, which have an influence on the expected value of future coupons;
- The level of market rates;
- The credit worthiness of the issuer: the note's MtM increases if the credit worthiness of the issuer improves.

In the particular case of floating rate notes: the MtM can either be very little sensitive to changes in rates (in the case of simple floaters) or increase should market rates increase (in the case of power floaters).

Secondary Market

There is no restriction in respect of the transferability of the Notes on the secondary Market subject to applicable selling restrictions.

Neither CRÉDIT AGRICOLE CIB nor any third party has an official market-making commitment in respect of the Notes.

This product is not a liquid instrument and the investor should be prepared to hold it until maturity should it not be called, if such option exists, by the issuer. Under normal market conditions, Crédit Agricole CIB will however endeavour, upon request of the investor, to give an indicative bid price for the note provided however that Crédit Agricole CIB does not assume any legal obligation to make a secondary market for this note. An insufficient secondary market may prevent the liquidation or limit the funds that can be generated from the sale of this note. The bid price will be based on the market value of the note, determined by Crédit Agricole CIB acting in good faith and may be below par. Such bid price will be dependent upon, among other things, interest rates, interest rate volatility, perceptions of issuer creditworthiness, time remaining to maturity, Crédit Agricole CIB' hedging obligations and the costs and losses incurred in connection with discharging such obligations.

CRÉDIT AGRICOLE CIB will quote an indicative Bid price on Reuters and Bloomberg pages.

However, no representation, warranty or guarantee is made that the information is complete.

Where indicative, this Term Sheet contains indicative terms that are subject to change. Actual prices will depend on market conditions at the time a transaction is concluded. Nothing in an indicative Term Sheet should be construed as an offer to sell and nothing in both an indicative and final Term Sheet should be construed as a recommendation to enter into any transaction or solicitation of an offer. No assurance is given by CRÉDIT AGRICOLE CORPORATE AND INVESTMENT BANK or the Issuer that any transaction or issue will be undertaken on the basis of indicative terms. Only the final terms in conjunction with the relevant offer documents and any supplements thereto will be considered legally binding.

CRÉDIT AGRICOLE CORPORATE AND INVESTMENT BANK does not act as a fiduciary or advisor to you. Where applicable, CRÉDIT AGRICOLE CORPORATE AND INVESTMENT BANK has provided you with information in order for you to make your own assessment and investment decision. That information sets out the principle features of the debt instrument and should be read in conjunction with the relevant offer documents and any supplements thereto. Prior to entering into any proposed transaction, you should ensure that you fully understand the transaction and make your own independent decision whether to enter into the transaction or transactions outlined in this Term Sheet in light of your own objectives and circumstances, including the risks, benefits and implications of entering into such a transaction. As such, when you enter into a transaction, you will be deemed to act for your own account and to understand and accept its terms and conditions and associated risks. You shall, at all times, be solely responsible for making your own independent appraisal of the Issuer, including investigations into such matters as its business, financial condition and creditworthiness thereof. You should engage your own financial, tax, accounting, legal and other professional advisors as you deem necessary to advise you on your investment decision.

CRÉDIT AGRICOLE CORPORATE AND INVESTMENT BANK, the Issuer and its affiliates, and/or their employees or clients may be in possession of confidential or material information not publicly available and/or have an interest, position, trade, deal or act as a market maker in identical, similar or related transactions to the one described in this term sheet. Neither CRÉDIT AGRICOLE CORPORATE AND INVESTMENT BANK nor the Issuer and its affiliates will be obliged to disclose any such information or interest. In any circumstance where a conflict of interest arises, you consent to CRÉDIT AGRICOLE CORPORATE AND INVESTMENT BANK acting in any manner that it considers appropriate to provide for the fair treatment of such conflicts.
